Emergency plan fiasco exposed by worst flooding in 70 years

THE worst flooding to hit Lyme Regis for 70 years has exposed the fraility of the town's emergency plans.

The town's designated emergency centre has been the Woodmead Halls for several years.

The hall management committee was asked to open the hall on Saturday after the area was hit by a month's rainfall in a day

A number of town councillors turned up at the halls to assist only to find that the town's emergency box contained a couple of visibilty jackets, RUNNING enthusiast Brian Shelley was born in Nottingham.

After taking degree courses in Surrey and Cardiff he forged a career in education, specialising in teaching children with learning and behaviour difficulties. After 24 years as headteacher of a special needs school he retired and moved to Bridport where he now lives.

A keen runner for over 30 years, the 64-year-old is secretary of Bridport Runners as well as clerk to the governors of St Mary's Primary School.

He is married with two sons and four grandchil-

HAVE you always loved running?

I started running over 30 years ago to keep fit. It was really to help with my basketball and squash, but it soon became an obsession and started to take precedence.

■ DO you enjoy any other sports?
I enjoy watching cricket and football, especially Derby County. I have supported the Rams since I lived in Derby and saw the great Brian Clough's team win the league in WHAT made you join the Bridport Runners?

I joined the Bridport Runners completely by accident. I was running past St Mary's Playing Field in Éridport and saw the club training there. Before that, I had been running on my own or occasionally with just one or two friends for over 30 years. The club is small and friendly and accepts all standards of runners of all ages. My own running has improved a great deal since joining the club.

■ IS the Bridport area a good place for running?
This is the best place I know for running. What could be better than running along the Jurassic Coast? Whenever I am struggling up the paths to the top of Thorncombe Beacon in the early morning or late evening I think of all those poor runners in towns and cities who only have roads or parks to run through.

■ WHICH sportsmen/women do you admire?

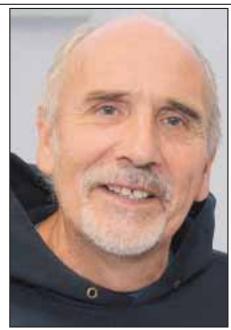

I greatly admire Paula Ratcliffe, Mo Farrah and Brian Clough. I also admire Peter Taylor and Colin Todd (both played for Derby County and England).

ARE there any tips or secrets to improving running technique?

I really recommend running with a group. It gives you a chance to share ideas and worries about injuries and niggles. It's also important to listen to what your body is telling you – it knows best.

■ WHAT'S the longest run you have taken part in?

I have run eight marathons, including London, New York and Brighton. It was my second visit to New York so I had seen all the sights already, but it is my favourite city and to be able to run through all the boroughs with such evocative names for people brought up on American films and TV - Brooklyn, the Bronx, etc. Wow. Also it was the first time I had run a marathon with my son. That was special

WHAT do you eat prior to a long run?

Muesli or porridge with honey

■ HAVE you had any adventures while running?

I was bitten by a horse on a footpath through a field I used regularly in Kent. Usually the horse stayed at the other end of the field. On this occasion he seemed to corner me near the stile and as I turned to get over it he gave me a nip on my shoulder, bruising it. I have been wary of horses ever since.

Another time I was running along a footpath with a friend. I was ahead of him as I was a bit younger than him

Suddenly he sprinted past me shouting "bullocks!" I saw just behind him a herd of young cows galloping towards us. I speeded up and luckily we both made the stile before the bullocks

HOW many pairs of running shoes do you go through a year?

Two, one road pair and one off road pair.

DO you have a dream run you would like to take part in?

Along a beach made up of firm sand that stretches for miles and miles beside a sparkling sea, or perhaps fol-lowing our amazing network of coastal footpaths going around the whole coastline of Great Britain.

WHAT would you say to someone thinking of taking up running?

Go for it, it not only keeps you fit, it is the best form of stress release I know. It's also the best cure for a hangover (if you can get past the first mile). Try out the Great Bridport Fun Run on July 15th or join the Bridport Runners. Don't use a treadmill, get out and enjoy the fresh air and

■ WHICH person living or dead would you ideally like to have running alongside you on a long run?

Both my grandfathers. One died in 1906 and the other in 1920, 30 years before I was born. Knowing how precious my relationship is with my grandchildren it would have been lovely to talk to them about their life experiences so different from my own, especially my maternal grand-father who was a bargee on the Gloucester Birmingham Canal in the early years of the 20th century.

day night asking if we needed anything but he said he was unable to do much until after the Olympics.

"Town councillors turned up at the halls but no-one seemed to know what was going on. We have been told categorically by the county that our role is to open the halls and then others will then take charge."

Mr Williams said he intended to raise the matter at the next council meeting to clarify what would happen in the future.

He continued: "Had it rained for another three hours on Saturday Lyme could have been facing a serious incident but no one seems to know what is going on." Among the town councillors who turned up at the halls on Satutday were Daryl Turner, Michaela Ellis (halls caretaker), Lorna Jenkin, Rikey Austin, Chris Clipson and Terry O'Grady.

Councillor Holman told the View From Lyme Regis that a full investigation into future emergency procedures would be carried out by the town council to establish a "chain of command" in such situations.

She paid tribute to the town's emergency workers, especially the fire brigade, police and lifeboat crew, and thanked the town councillors who "rolled up their sleeves" to help with the situation.

Chef cancels food festival after fall-out with publican

by Philip Evans philip@pemedia.co.uk

TOP chef Mark Hix has been forced to cancel a two-day food festival to raise money for the RNLI after being accused, unfairly in his view, of "exploiting the charity" to promote one of his restaurants

Mr Hix was planning to hold the festival, called "Food Rocks", on the last two days of Lifeboat Week in Lyme Regis, in a marquee on the harbour slip-

The festival would have featured a different event every hour on the hour between 10am and 4pm on Saturday and Sunday, July 28th and 29th in the run-up to an appearance by the Red Arrows.

He had arranged for other chefs and food experts to appear at the festival which would have finished with a cook-off between the lifeboat crews from Lyme and Dartmouth.

Mr Hix, a long time supporter to the RNLI who has raised many thousands of pounds over the years, was expecting the festival to raise a four-figure sum for Lifeboat Week.

But publicans John and Linda McClements, who run the Cobb Arms pub and restaurant which overlooks the slipway, have claimed the festival will harm their business.

Mr Hix, who owns the Oyster and Fish House in Lister Gardens as well as several top London restaurants, was offered an alternative site on the shingle beach next to the Lifeboat Station but his main sponsor, kitchen suppliers VZug, who were providing the necessary equipment, said the site was unsafe and withdrew.

Mr Hix's PR Jo Harris said they were left with no choice but to cancel the event.

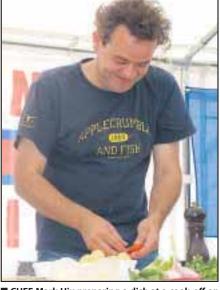

Bigger event

They are now planning a much bigger festival for next summer at the other end of the seafront.

Mr Hix told the View from Lyme Regis: "I do food festivals all over the country, especially the West Country ones - Dartmouth, Exeter and Rick Stein's Christmas Festival - where all the local chefs and restaurants do demos in his cookery school.

"Mitch Tonks in Dartmouth and Michael Caines in Exeter all create a great local spirit and encourage foodies, friends and chefs to participate to put these West Country foodie destinations on the map and encourage tourism to the area.

"I don't need to host a food festival in Lyme but what I would love is to have all the local traders on board in the same spirit as the above mentioned. I guess I will take the Lifeboat weekend off and go to Dartmouth

"I host several events in my restaurants throughout the year with chefs like Nathan Outlaw, Mitch Tonks and Matt Follas which has fantastic response and gives the general public a great insight into how restaurateurs work together as a form of marketing as all our customers use all of these restaurants depending on the occasion."

Mr and Mrs McClements threatend to withdraw their support from the Lifeboat if they went ahead with the festival on the slipway, stressing that their only real concern was the loca-

After hearing that the festival had been cancelled, they wrote to Mr Hix expressing their disappointment that the event could not take place on the alternative site and offering full support next year.

Mr Hix spent last weekend at the Wymouth Seafood Festival and afterwards wrote on his blog: "Weymouth Food Festival is in full swing today and there are thousands of foodies here supporting local businesses.

"What a shame the festival was rained off yesterday and what a shame we have had to pull the Food Rocks festival in Lyme Regis.

"Anyway, must dash - I'm just about to do a demo on the quay in front of Mallams restaurant and guess what, they haven't said a word and fully support the festival unlike certain traders on the Cobb in Lyme Regis who seem to think it's a threat to business having local chefs demonstrating dishes with local ingredients to support fishermen and growers."

Lyme Regis RNLI have issued a statament saying they were "bitterly disappointed" that the festival had been cancelled.

The statement continued: "This a most unfortunate chain of events leading to the cancellation of a cookery demonstration which we believe would have raised substantial funds for the RNLI charity.

"Mr Hix is a long-standing supporter of the RNLI and we were very much looking forward to him taking part in our Lifeboat Week.

"His appearance would have been a major attraction, and his absence will doubtless result in a reduction in donations during the week."

lue FLOOD ZONE: Mill Green and Jericho under water. Below right, the lifeboat crew decide to cordon off the area for safety while talking to concerned residents Photos by PHILIP AND FRANCESCA EVANS

■ WASHED UP: A boat broke from its mooring and drifted 400 metres to the shingle beach

LYME Regis was hit on Saturday by what residents believe to be the worst floods in 70 years, with areas of Mill Green, Jericho, Windsor Terrace and the Town Mill completely submerged.

The high tide mixed with a month's worth of rain falling in 24 hours led to the floods and warnings were issued across West Dorset and East Devon by the Environment Agency.

The emergency services were out in force, including Lyme Regis lifeboat crew who, together with police, took the decision to cordon off Gosling Bridge as water from the River Lim started to spill over Coombe Street and the Lynch pathway. They then roped off the whole of Jericho, Windsor Terrace and Woodmead Road, where overflowing drains had created a pool of water across the bridge at the bottom of the hill.

Fire crews were also on by Francesca Evans francesca@pemedia.co.uk hand, visiting riverside houses to ensure residents were safe. Residents protected their properties with sandbags where possible but the floods caused much damage to outside paving along the riverside paths. The footbridge across Jericho was left in a particularly raised tarmac Earlier in the morning the lifeboat crew worked alongside coastguards after a fishing boat broke from its mooring and drifted 400 metres onto the shingle beach.

bad state with cracked and

The boat, "Amaretto", was spotted drifting in force six winds, heavy seas and torrential rain by harbourmaster Grahame For-He shaw. alerted and the coastguards lifeboat was launched at 8.05am.

Conditions were not suitable for the lifeboat to tow the beached fishing vessel. so it was attached by rope to the RNLI tractor to await a lower tide when it could be lifted to safety.

The lifeboat crew also took another boat owner to his vessel, also moored outside the harbor, so that it could be moved to a safer position.

At the Town Mill the "Colour, Line and Thread" art exhibition, which had only opened the evening before, had to be swept out and the artwork was eventually dismantled and taken upstairs. The display has since reopened.

Water also gushed into the Mill Café but new Italian owner Stefano Arturi was able to reopen less than 24 hours later.

He said: "The fire brigade arrived but were unable to help us. We had also asked for sandbags very early in the morning and long before the flooding, but they arrived too late.

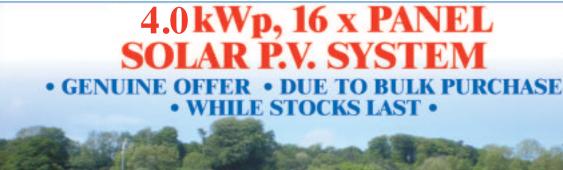

We used everything we had to get the water out and then started cleaning and cleaning and cleaning. We had to cancel Saturday's supper but we were determined to open Sunday as usual and worked until late into the night to make the cafe look its usual self."

The flooding caused several mudslides on the cliffs around Lyme Regis, including one slip in which land from the Lyme Alpacas farm on Ware Lane fell to Monmouth Beach.

Lyme Alpacas owner and East Devon district councillor, Ian Thomas, spoke about the slip on his Facebook page, saying that all alpacas had been moved from two clifftop paddocks and were safe and accounted for. He joked: 'When we moved to Lyme, always fancied a sea view hurrah, we now have one as part of the farm has moved to Monmouth Beach!"

The high river levels dropped as the tide went back out. It was feared that further flooding would occur at about 10.30pm because of the expected higher tide, however, water levels seemed to stay under control for the night.

CHARMOUTH Fire Brigade was out for 14 hours without a break after the River Char broke its banks on Saturday.

They were joined by coastguards in evacuating the worst affected houses.

Seadown Holiday Park in Charmouth was forced to cancel 40 bookings over the weekend and on Monday.

Speaking about the flooding, staff said: "It was horrendous. We've never known a morning like it.

"It affected the touring site more than our static caravans. We have six pitches in a lower spot and we pulled one out but then decided to pull them all out as the river came right up over our flood defence bank.

"We moved about six touring caravans to a higher pitch. By that time there was about five feet of water here.

"We cancelled all arrivals for Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

"The water went back down as quick as it came up when the tide went back out. There's now just debris and some water at the beach end of the site."

also hit the lower areas of Uplyme, including the King George V Playing Field, tennis courts, Uplyme Filling Station and the main road through the village.

Residents took turf that

was also flooded with fire crews having to pump out the facility, and the paddock at the Talbot Arms was completely submerged.

Football club fights floods to host beer festival

DESPITE the worst floods for 70 years hitting Lyme Regis over the weekend, organisers of the football club's first beer festival were determined to go on with the show.

The event went ahead despite football club members waking to a sodden pitch and blownover marquee on Saturday morning.

The weekend-long event, organised by members Tim Edwards and Gerard Hitchcock, started with a comedy night on Saturday hosted by MC Tom Glover, from Bridport. Other up and coming comedians performing included Russ Powell, Rex Fisher, Omar Hamdi, Matt Price and Stuart Newport.

for Candles on the Cobb as well as funds for the club's ongoing extension project.

It was all hands on deck on Saturday morning to get the club up to scratch for the remainder of the weekend following a night of heavy rain and winds

A total of 17 beers were on offer plus five ciders, many from local breweries including Mighty Hop, Town Mill, Art Brew, Otter, Palmers and Seasons Ciders which also offered a tasting session.

Despite the poor weather, many supporters donned their waterproofs

Karl Weber and friends and the drawing of a weekend-long raffle which raised £136.

The club also screened the Wimbledon final with many festival-goers cheering on Andy Murray.

It is hoped the event will have raised in excess of £1,000 and a second festival is planned for next year Chairman Howard Larcombe said: "Thanks go to organisers Tim and Gerard and all those who helped and attended over the weekend, especially taking into account the poor weather.

"The event raised muchneeded funds for our extension project and we hope it will become an annual festival."

Lyme news briefs... The importance of lip reading

A LYME REGIS woman believes it is important to learn lipreading before you or your partner or friends lose your hearing completely.

For the deaf it is essential, but for those starting to lose their hearing and for those closest to them, it is something to seriously consider to help both parties communicate.

As a result Ruth Bizley is looking to expand her current daytime lipreading classes to enable working people to learn in the evenings.

Ruth has had a progressive hearing loss since childhood and has worn hearing aids for most of her life. She therefore knows as well as anybody the problems of losing your hearing.

"You may feel excluded from everyday activities and conversations, and may find it difficult to cope with some situations. You may well also feel frustrated when trying to communicate with people around you."

Six months ago she was fitted with a cochlear implant which is progressively helping her to hear more, and to understand speech more easily.

by Stuart Broom stuart@pemedia.co.uk

■ RUTH Bizley

Ruth makes the point that it is important not to wait until you lose your hearing or other loved ones do.

"Lipreading classes are for anyone who has lost their hearing, whether it's a mild loss or a more severe one. They are also open to partners and friends of people with a hearing loss, or those who work with people who have lost their hearing.

"Lipreading, which is based on recognising lip shapes, is an essential life skill for people with hearing loss. Joining a class is an ideal way to meet people in a similar position."

Ruth who is a committee member of Bridport Deaf Club and a volunteer for Action on Hearing Loss, trained as a lipreading teacher at the City Lit in London, and qualified in

She currently runs two hour classes in Bridport, Lyme Regis and Exeter in the daytime, but is aware for the need for evening classes to allow people who are unable to attend during the day.

She is anxious therefore to hear from anyone who would be interested in attending such an evening class.

"Joining a class is an ideal way of meeting people in a similar position, and you will pick up a lot of tips and practical information to help cope with hearing loss.

'The lessons which are informal and friendly, will help you recognise different lip shapes and which words look alike on the lips; you probably won't realise that lipreading is indeed helping your hearing.'

Classes will cost £40 for

Sailing just for the ladies

LYME Regis Sea School is introducing a new course this summer specifically for

The school has in previous years run very successful courses for youngsters and adults through intensive week-long sessions but will be offering its new course for women sailors every Saturday afternoon from July 14th.

The sessions, which will run from 2pm to 5pm will be run by Royal Yachting Association senior instructor Kit Fortescue and there will be a safety boat on hand during all sessions.

The first session will cost £30, which will cover enrolment into the sea school payment for the instructors, insurance and wear and tear on the boats. Further sessions will cost £20 or £10 for those with their own boat.

Each session will meet in the sailing club where those taking part will be able to discuss their own personal needs and what they hope to get out of the session. Contact details will also be exchanged so that trainees can be informed if a session is cancelled due to poor weather.

The "Colour, Line and Thread" exhibition opened at the Town Mill Galleries on Friday evening.

The display features work from Pat Campbell, Hilary Buckley, Pat Marler, John Calder and Peter Newby, including a range of paintings, textiles and land art.

Invited guests enjoyed a preview party on Friday evening before the exhibition was due to open on Saturday. However, as floods poured into the Town Mill the artists and exhibition stewards had to sweep out the gallery and were eventually forced to dismantle the display and take their work upstairs (see

The exhibition has now reopened and will remain open until July 25th.

FTER the weekend's shocking floods it seems Lyme Regis could do with a bit of brightening up and some less disastrous excitement.

Luckily, we don't need to look too far as tomorrow is the big day many have been waiting for for months.

Of course, I'm referring to the Olympic Torch visiting the town tomorrow (Thursday) as part of its 70-day relay around the country.

It is expected that thousands of visitors will descend into the town - more than usually seen on Red Arrows day - for this once in a lifetime opportunity, with the torch arriving at 3.35pm.

Crowds at other parts of the relay have been huge and the stint in Lyme is set to be particularly popular, as the torch will be carried onto the historic Cobb wall potentially by a celebrity or famous sportsperson, which we're all eagerly waiting to be announced this evening (Wednesday).

It will be a huge day for many, myself included as, no pressure, but I've got to get that shot among what I'm expecting to be a bit of a scrum of photographers and TV crews from further afield.

I just hope my camera is up to the job as it's been behaving a little erratically since it got a soaking whilst taking photos of the floods.

I'll be joined by my fellow reporters, though, as the View team will be out in force to make sure we can bring you great coverage of the event in next week's paper.

Information leaflets are now bring distributed around the town, including details on parking, road closures, a full programme of the day and where you can get the bet views of the Olympic flame.

Don't forget that after the torch has left celebrations will still continue with Lyme's own "Olympians" selected by the town's many sporting organisations.

They will be processing along Marine Parade and will be awarded medals before a plaque marking The Corinthians' great achievement in rowing bus rather than carried all the way by torchbearers. It is now being carried 24-hours a day by volun-

The "Real Relay" will arrive in Lyme Regis on the Chideock to Lyme Regis stint on Saturday, July 14th and organisers hope there will be supporters to cheer it on as it passes by.

This stinit of the relay is being supported by town councillor Rikey Austin who is organising the torchbearers under the name "Team Lyme Regis".

On Facebook she said:
"Lyme Regis has got such a fabulous spirit and it's great for us as a community to show our pride being part of the Real Relay."

The Real Relay torch as a GPS tracker so it can be followed by visiting www.endurancelife.com/ realrelay ■ JUSTIN Tunstall at the Town Mill Cheesemonger has also found an alternative way to celebrate the Olympic Torch coming to Lyme Regis.

Torch coming to Lyme Regis.

He said: "Forget paying between £6,000 and £150,000 to buy an Olympic Torch on eBay. On Thursday, as the Olympic Torch Relay passes through the town, we will be selling ice cream and sorbet in edible 24 carat gold cones, which may look rather familiar to torch fans and, at £9.95, will cost a fraction of the cost of the real item."

Crafted by Mermaid Gallery proprietor, Linzi West, the golden torches are the cheesemonger's usual quality sugar cones, covered in fully edible 24 carat gold leaf. The ice cream is from Mendip Moments, the much lauded Somerset maker who has recently won a Taste of the West Gold award for the lemon curd flavour and a silver for the chocoholic chunk.

Mr Tunstall added: "We're normally known for our fantastic range of cheeses, but our ice cream, served in cones or tubs, is also of the very highest quality."

quality.

"As the torch comes to Lyme, we thought we'd do something fun and summery with that. I'd plump for the raspberry and elderflower sorbet as shown here - it's got so much fruit in it, it must count as one of your five-a-day. There's only a limited number of the special cones - first come, first served!"

NIMAL HOUSE

PET & ANIMAL SUPPLIES

Creature Comforts & Gifts for your pets, home & garden

GRAND OPENING FRIDAY 13TH & SATURDAY 14TH JI

Animal House at 8 South Street, Bridport, opened its door as a pet and animal supplies store on the 7th April 2012 and thanks to great staff and customers we have not looked back since. It has been something of a whirlwind start, so much so that it has taken until now to organise an official opening. We decided to have an official opening for lots of reasons but we wanted to do so much that we decided to hold it over 2 days, this coming Friday and Saturday, 13th, 14th July. We want to use it an opportunity to introduce ourselves to people who still don't know we exist or what exactly we are but we also want to take the opportunity to say thank you to our existing customers both of the shop and Mark's market stall who have supported us so brilliantly. Mark has run his pet and animal supplies stall outside M &Co and HSBC bank on East Street for a few years now and weather permitting, he has done his best to keep many music lovers entertained by running his vinyl music stall next to the pet stall.

It's a strange mix but it works and we have carried that mix into the shop by having a "vinyl quarter", aka " Doghouse Music", at the back of the shop. Step up and out of the "small animal and cat "departments and suddenly you are surrounded by vintage and contemporary music posters and an eclectic mix of music covering most genres.

We wanted to create a shop that was fun to visit and a little quirky but that also promoted the values that are important to us and, we think, to the people of Bridport. We wanted a contemporary and well stocked pet and animal supplies store with a range of products for as many tastes and budgets as we have room for and we also wanted to create the feel of an old fashioned grocery store, but for animals, where customer service, politeness and a genuine desire to keep customers happy are our core values.

We have been so lucky to have found great staff both for on the stall and in the shop and they are all genuinely interested in what we sell and in matching the right products to the right customers. It is not just about selling on the day but about making sure people are happy with what they buy so that they will come back again.

Bridport is a unique place and one of the few towns in the South West to still have a great selection of independent retailers in its shops and wonderful street market, offering customers real choice and a variety of interesting products. We wanted to be part of that and to use as many local products and talent as we could.

We have been very lucky so far to have found and worked with some great people such as Becky Kingston who designed our Animal House signs and Claire of Frolic fame who designed the brilliantly quirky music banner, also Rosemary Jacks Pottery and Kitsch Collars.

We have also teamed up with 2 great local companies, Dorwest and Hilton Herbs whose passion and belief in their respective products is inspiring

So come along and join us this Friday and Saturday and find out more about what we are about. We have lots of things planned for both days such as prize draws and the launch of our new loyalty cards.

We look forward to seeing you and your animals then.

Artist Pat Campbell was inspired by her father

■ IN a series of interviews leading up to Lyme Regis ArtsFest 2012 (September 8th to 16th), Anthea Simmons introduces readers to some of the local people involved in the tenth annual festival. This week she meets Pat Campbell, whose work will be on show for much of July in the Town Mill's Courtyard Gallery.

WHAT is the story of your involvement in the arts? I've painted and drawn from a very early age. My father was an amateur watercolourist and he encouraged me, teaching me about perspective and to share his love of the natural world.

I remember him setting me the challenge of drawing a matchbox and we often played the squiggle game - turning a random mark into a picture. That really teaches you to look at form.

I was always doodling but I didn't do anything formal with my interest. Instead, I trained as a social worker and worked in South East London. In the eighties, a group of politically like-minded women got together and formed a Women's Art Group (actually, we did have a token male before he got a job on the buses!). We met once a week, exhibited in galleries in Southwark and Peckham and passed on skills learned on our travels. I showed the others how to do silk painting after doing a course with Christine Allison while on holiday! It's funny how it all works out!

Now I am here, part of ArtsFest, and art is a big part of my life. I still keep in touch with those women, though, and sometimes I miss the buzz of London but I have developed a real taste for peace and quiet!

WHAT are your sources of inspiration?

Well, my father was really important in getting me going. We would sometimes go on day trips to the coast in a van he'd borrowed from work (no money for holidays) and he'd encourage me to enjoy the beauty around me.

Later, I drew inspiration from the masters, especially Hockney, Matisse, Bonnard and Picasso. And I love Hopper, those people in hotel rooms or bars, wonderful!

I also love sculpture, particularly Barbara Hepworth. I do do stonecarving, though it is more difficult now that I have some osteo-arthritis. I also tried my hand at woodcarving after seeing beautiful Maori carvings in New Zealand.

IF you could be locked in any gallery which would it be and if you could own any artwork what would it be?

My favourite gallery is Tate St Ives. I just love the juxtaposition of the sea and that lovely curved room. It's always been great weather when I have visited – blue, blue skies and creamy yellow sand.

I also love the Te Papa Museum of New Zealand in Wellington and the Getty in California.

You could lob me one of Barbara Hepworth's small marble sculptures and I'd be really happy! I'd love some of Hockney's pencil sketches too. We've got a print of his "Mulholland Drive" on the wall. I love it.

HOW long have you been involved in ArtsFest?

Since 2007. I had a solo show in the summer in Axminster and that gave me the confidence to get involved. I think we are incredibly lucky to be able to exhibit in the Baptist Church Hall. It is a great space and they are so generous and accommodating.

• WHAT are you looking forward to at this year's ArtsFest?

I thought last year's Malthouse Exhibition was brilliant and I am really glad that we are going for the universal 12 inch square format again. I think those squares make for a really strong impact all hung together and it emphasises that sense of togetherness which is such an important part of ArtsFest.

The opening party is always really good. I never miss that! I do wish there were more sculptures in the shows and around Lyme but you can't have everything.

Paralympian celebrated in museum's latest exhibition

IN the 1984 Paralympic Games in New York, Lyme Regis resident Diane Wiscombe won a gold medal.

Her magnificent achievement is now the subject of Lyme Regis Museum's latest exhibition "Lyme's Paralympic Gold", which opens on Thursday, July 12th as the Olympic Torch will pass through the town.

Diane, who died earlier this year, was the daughter of Muriel and Tony Wiscombe of the well-known local family. Her father died two years ago.

The paralympian born in 1965 as one of twins born prematurely and was diagnosed as having cerebral palsy. The disability first affected her walking but, later in life, movement of her arms and hands became more difficult

She attended Saint Michael's Infant and Junior Schools between 1970 and 1976 and then became a weekly boarder at Princess Margaret School, Taunton, a school for children with physical disabilities.

In 1981 Diane moved as a full-time boarder to the prestigious National Star Centre at Cheltenham. Her intention was to return to Lyme and run the office of the family business, A. and F. Wiscombe, a long-established Lyme building company, but her life changed when she met Ken Black, swimming coach at the competitions.

Convinced that she could win medals at the highest level, Diane stayed in Cheltenham until 1985 to continue her gruelling training schedule. The haul of medals grew larger and she began to compete internationally. She was then picked for the British Para-lympic team for both swimming and boccia, a form of bowls played with small, sand-filled leather balls.

At the 1984 Games in New York, Diane won two medals - a gold for the 25 metres freestyle swimming, where she set a new world record, and a silver medal for women's individual boccia.

She returned to Lyme in 1984 and, in 1988, was picked again for both the swimming and boccia teams and travelled to Seoul, Korea, Diane won a silver medal for boccia.

"Lyme's Paralympic Gold" exhibition, curated by Ken Gollop, will run from Thursday, July 12 until the end of September. Everyone is welcome to the museum on the opening day free of charge.

Sherborne Turf

FROM our location in the picturesque village of Trent, Sherborne Turf has been supplying the gardeners of Dorset, Somerset, Hampshire and Wiltshire with quality lawn turf and garden products for over 35 years. Our turf is grown in high quality farmland which forms part of The Trent Estate, using a unique blend of grasses that will knit together to form a firm base, negating the need for potentially harmful netting that could pose a trip hazard and be costly to remove.

Supplying the local area with fresh turf cut to order, low 'turf miles' mean our grass is green in more ways than one!

At Sherborne Turf, our product range has expanded to meet the needs of our customers. Garden soils are stored under cover in winter ready for delivery in bulk bags, along with a variety of top dressing, bark, mulch and compost for the serious gardener.

Deliveries are made using our own fleet of vehicles and drivers experienced in the handling of turf and associated products. While the trade standard for deliveries is 'kerb-side', our drivers understand this is not always practical for your gardens, and so we will always endeavour to place your items as conveniently as possible for you, subject to suitable access.

Lyme Letters Club for Young People money

Greedy high valuations are pricing out Lyme's individual high street

■ IN the last few years we have had Tesco, Pasty Presto and now W.H. Smiths have arrived in our high street and, as I understand, we have Seasalt and the Costa Coffee chain also arriving soon.

Is this to make visitors feel at home and safe when they go away? Do the poor thumb-sucking people need the same products wherever they go? If this is so then why don't we fill in the harbour, paint it green, and use it as a money-making car park.

We could also have a Big Mac in the aquarium at the end of the Cobb.

Or could it be that the high valuations put on by the greedy, are pricing out the small individual and loosing Lyme's uniqueness?

If nothing else it does make you think.

Carl Salter, Cobb Road, Lyme Regis

'Cloak and dagger' approach to

■ READING the View From (June 27th), I notice that there is considerable mention of councillors allegedly misleading others, or of being "ignorant of procedure"

With this in mind, I'd like to draw readers attention to something far more pernicious that appears to be going on in the town involving a substantial amount of money, raised in good faith by the citizens of Lyme Regis.

I refer to what used to be the Lyme Regis Club for Young People and the money raised to purchase the building now known as The Hub.

My attention was bought to a small notice in the parish newsletter for St Michael's Church in which the above organisation was proposing to make available "a second tranche of grants to bona fide young people's groups and individuals in the areas of Lyme Regis and Uplyme". This notice was posted by the trustees of said group c/o Audrey Coussens.

I, for one, have a number of issues with this notice, not the least of which is why was this notice not given more prominence? In this newspaper, for instance? Do the trustees only wish for church groups to apply? Is that what they consider "bona fide"?

This organisation claims to be a charity. However, the charity number that they quote in the advert (201164) is from a charity that ceased to exist in 1995. It wasn't even a local charity. When one searches for the real charity number (301147) we find that the financial records of the organisation are not available.

Under charity law, organisations with an income over £10,000 are required to submit audited accounts, each year. After the building in Church Street was purchased from the club, one would have expected to see this reflected in the club's 2010-2011 submission of accounts. However, according to the Charity Commission, the club posted a sub-£10,000 income for that

Similarly, according to the Charity Commission "Grants totalling £30,813 were made on July 20th 2011 to seven bona fide youth groups and a church youth worker". Does anyone have any idea who these

As someone who was heavily involved in fundraising for the purchase of The Hub (as many of you were), I don't think it wrong of me to ask where's the money gone?. Also I'd like to know why at least some of it hasn't gone back to The Hub, in the form of grants. Are they not "bona fide" enough?

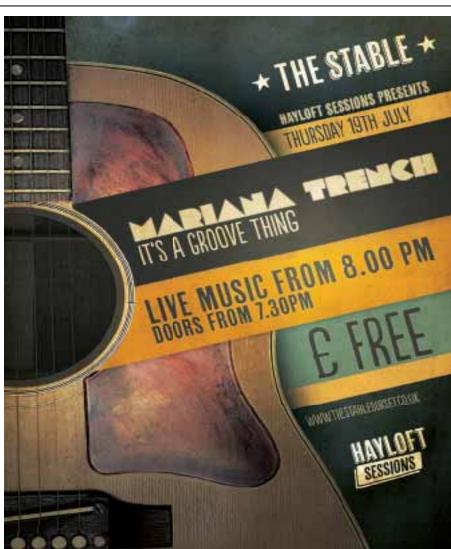

This whole issue has been a minefield from day one. The trustees of the club had no reason to sell the building off in the first place. It could have been donated to the young people of the town for a nominal sum, in the first place.

It was only when the trustees were made aware of an article in the Club for Young People's rules and regulations that they realised that it could not be sold for commercial use. Everything has been run under a cloak and dagger arrangement. I find it hard to believe that people who have been involved with charity work for so long are ignorant of procedure. I can only, therefore, assume that they are deliberately misleading both us and the Charity Commission?

For those of you who would like more information or confirmation of what I've said here, go to the Charity Commission website at www.charity-commission.gov.uk and put in the two numbers that I've listed above. Then please contact Audrey Coussens (her address is on the site) and ask the pertinent questions. You may even want to contact the Charity Commission direct.

Mosquito-B return to Lyme for Bastille Day concert Top young pianist

Top French-Canadian Indie Power Trio returns to the town on their 4th UK Tour

LYME REGIS has had a special bond with Mosquito-B ever since their first tour, when they played here as support to the Korgis/Stackridge. It was at this gig that the band was invited to be part of the celebrations surrounding John Lennon's 70th birthday. This led to London gigs, an acoustic performance on Abbey Road, and invitations to play bigger festivals and events the following year when they played the prestigious Troubadour Club in London. Their 'English' sound has made them very popular over here, as Dan Louis, leader of the band says, "We definitely have a chemistry with the UK audience, on our first performance we already knew that something was going on".

The band received rave reviews in the music press on their last visit. and with the album 'Killing Mars' working firmly in their favour, they are back this year to continue the dream of making it in the UK, playing London gigs, festivals in the South West, and plans are firmly advanced for them to tour Europe at some point in the future.

The gig on Saturday, July 14th at the Woodmead Halls will be a special show, Mosquito-B regard Lyme Regis as their starting point in the UK, and every performance here has proved to us that there's some classy rock music coming out of Canada. We know they love our town, and

AS A SCHOOLBOY in Hull in 1945 I was introduced to the poetry of our Poet Laureate, the great John Masefield. My favourite poem then is still widely admired and recited today.

SEA-FEVER

I must down to the seas again, to the lonely sea and the sky,

And all I ask is a tall ship and a star to steer her by, And the wheel's kick and the wind's song and the white sail's shaking,

And a grey mist on the sea's face, and a grey dawn breaking.

I must down to the seas again, for the call of the runnina tide

Is a wild call and a clear call that may not be denied; And all I ask is a windy day with the white clouds flying, And the flung spray and the blown spume, and the sea-gulls crying.

I must down to the seas again, to the vagrant gypsy life,

To the gull's way and the whale's way where the wind's like a whetted knife; And all I ask is a merry yarn from a laughing fellow-rover And quiet sleep and a sweet dream when the long trick's over.

But my English Literature teacher in those wartime days did not introduce us to the poetry of Dorothy Parker. (Masefield and Parker were contemporaries who died within a month of each other in 1967.) If Masefield's poem gives you 'sea-fever' perhaps Parker's 'Chanty' is the antidote.

CHANTY

A wet sheet and a straining sail, And a sea of shifting blue; A wide sky and a rousing gale, And joy in the heart of you; A clean line, where the sky hangs low And a seagull soars and dips; and the old voice that bids men go Go down to the sea in ships.

So go and sail the gold sea, the bold sea, the cold sea; The waving, craving, raving sea that's fringed with silken foam:

Oh, go and sail the green sea, the keen sea, the mean sea-

But if it's all the same to you, I'll stick around at home.

The swift turn of the night-wind's whim, And the tang of hempen strinas: The sharp snap of the halyards slim, And the spray that cuts and stings. The wild chorus the breezes hum, And the waves that prowl and creep; And the old voice that bids men come

by Frank McGarry

Come over the tameless deep.

So go and sail the white sea, the light sea, the bright sea, The dashing, crashing, smashing sea, that dances in the gale;

Go on and sail the sad sea, the bad sea, the mad sea -But if it's just the same to you, I'd rather be in jail.

We have just enough space remaining for this short prayer from the pen of Mary Dunning Thwing.

A PRAYER

Open Thou mine eyes that I may see The beauty of the world Thou'st given me; Open Thou my heart that I might feel Thy loving care about me, strong and real; Open Thou my mind that I may know Thy friendly people as they come and go; Open Thou my soul that I may give Love, labour, faith, while Thou helpst me live.

Edana Minghella to perform at 115 Club

BRIDPORT'S only dedicated dinner and music venue, 115 Club, last week enjoyed a fabulous performance by Barbara J Hunt, supported by Pete Maxfield on Double Bass. The pair, who only recently began their collaboration, performed lively numbers, showing how music can entertain, enthral and encourage. Barbara is a philosophical lady, understanding the roots of music and using this to make her performances personal and meaningful, while Pete offers up some of the finest Double Bass ears have ever heard.

Next time at 115 Club, the wonderful "raw power and emotional intensity" of Edana Minghella will be on display, supported by Pete Maxfield and Mick Smith. Edana, an Anglo-Italian talent of the finest standard, will perform Jazz and Blues, offering beautiful lyrics, including tracks off her album 'Still on my Feet' (released November 2011). Edana Sings the blues like no other, her voice will tear your heart out, and her arrangements are sensitive but sublime, with world-class musicians, simply stunning.

Edana's music has lit up many a stage, but also film, having featured tracks in the films 'The Talented Mr Ripley' & 'Truly, Madly,

New staging of working class classic play to be performed at the Marine Theatre

TOWNSEND Productions is delighted to announce that it will be staging a new production of Stephen Lowe's critically acclaimed version of Robert Tressell's The Ragged Trousered Philanthropists at the Marine Theatre in Lyme Regis on Saturday, July 14th.

Using instrumentation, songs of the period, movement, physicalisation, comedy and characterisation to create the spirit and clarity of the political message, the play shares with its audience a year in the life of a group of painters and decorators, as they renovate a three-storey town house for Mayor Sweater. It traces their struggle for survival in a complacent and stagnating Edwardian England. These workers are the "philanthropists" who throw themselves into back-breaking work for poverty wages in order to generate profit for their mas-

Performed as a two-hander, the production, which coincides with the centenary anniversary of the author's death remains as vivid and as relevant as when it was written almost a century ago,

Robert Tressell's The Ragged Trousered Philanthropists, has become a classic of working-class literature since its first publication in 1914. The themes and style of the piece are eternally relevant and provoking as it puts life and politics into sharp focus in an entertaining and accessible way. What, with a Tory-led coalition government in power, and that the year 2011 is the centenary anniversary of Robert Tressell's death, the company felt it was the right time for this show to be seen on tour nationally.

Stephen Lowe's version of the story was first seen in 1978, when Joint Stock Theatre Company toured the country playing to packed houses. The play was revived at the Half Moon Theatre, London in 1983 and again for a touring production by the Birmingham Rep in 1991.

The Ragged Trousered Philanthropists' excellent cast features Rodney Matthew who joins the production straight off the back of 'Jerusalem' in the West End. He has worked at many of the leading repertory theatres these have included: West Yorkshire Playhouse where he worked for a year and at Dundee Rep where he spent a memorable five years performing in classical, musical and new work around Scotland and Neil Gore (Song of Singapore, Chichester Festival Theatre and the West end). The production is directed by Louise Townsend, with the creative team including designs by Fine Time Fontayne.

Tickets for The Ragged Trousered Philanthropists are priced at £9.50 (£8 Concs) and can be purchased at the Box Office on 01297 442138 or online at www.marinetheatre.com.

Beer Festival is bigger and better

NORTH Perrott Cricket Club is staging its second annual beer and cider festival at the Willis Lane ground on Saturday July 21st and all the signs are that it will be even more successful than last year.

It will feature 12 ciders – an increase on last year because they sold out so quickly – and 16 beers from around the UK, including a commemorative ale produced for the occasion by Palmers brewery of Bridport. As a result of a competition organised to come up with a name for the ale based on an Olympics theme, the judges have chosen 'Jave-ale-inn' submitted by Sue Ward, of North Perrott.

If the weather is anything as good as last year, visitors will be in cricket heaven, able to sit with a glass in hand and watch North Perrott 2nd X1 play a home match against Staplegrove at what is regarded as one of the loveliest grounds in Somerset. Other attractions during the day include a hog roast, barbecue and live music from three bands including the popular Crooked Furrow.

The festival starts at 12noon and finishes at 11.00 pm and the entry price of £5 includes a souvenir glass. To-kens to be exchanged for glasses of beer or cider can be purchased on the way in, while for those who might prefer a glass of wine or a lager, the pavilion bar will be open

"Last year was our first beer and cider festival and such was its success that we decided to organise it again this year but to start earlier," says Derek Boles, chairman of the organising committee. "It is the perfect setting for such an event and we hope to see hundreds of people coming along and having a great time."

More businesses have come forward this year to support the festival through the sponsorship of barrels of beer and cider. "We'd like to thank them because their support gives us the foundations on which to present an even better festival," adds Derek.

ReView | Brilliant Bridges aka Kev.i.n

IF YOU were not one of the 194 people that were lucky enough to get tickets for Kevin Bridges at the Bridport Art Centre on Saturday then you missed a treat.

Already one of Britain's most popular comics, he made it through the floods to give a superb performance of stand-up comedy in 'Work in Progress'

The 25-year-old Scot who has now renamed himself Kev.i.n after poking fun at the ex Black-eyed Pea singer, had us laughing in the aisles with his observational humour, and despite a large section of the audience being 'over-25', including me, he was more than capable of communicating his style and modern wit to us as he tried out new material for his forthcoming tour of the UK later in the year.

His stories of taking driving lessons, travelling on the bus and going on his first holiday and learning Spanish, were priceless.

For such a young man, he has already made a name for himself, and on this showing there is no stopping him.

What a coup for Bridport Arts Centre, a wonderful evening!

Toyota Prius plug-in wins Next Green Car award

THE Next Green Car Awards 2012 have been announced today with Prius Plug-in taking the honours in the large family category. The latest member of the Prius range, the Prius Plug-in has been on sale in the UK from 9 July.

Next Green Car uses its unique Green Car Rating (GCR) to rank the greenest new cars to come to market, honouring the most innovative low emission models with the Next Green Car Awards. The winners were selected from shortlist of 26 of the UK's greenest new cars of 2012/13, for their environmental GCR level of innovation, value for money, drive experience and design.

Dr. Ben Lane, Managing Editor of Next Green Car said: "The 2012 winners reflect two key elements underlying current green car development: downsizing and electrification. Over half of the winners also incorporate electric drive-trains, either as pure electric cars, plug-in hybrids or with start-stop. Well worth the wait, the Prius Plug-in adds over 15 miles of zero-emission capability to the well proven standard Prius. A car which offers the benefits of an electric vehicle, but without the limitations of battery range." Matt Harrison, Toyota (GB)'s Commercial Director said: "We are delighted that the Toyota Prius Plug-in has won the Next Green Car Award, particularly as it coincides with the new model going on sale in the UK. Plug-in hybrid represents the next step in Toyota hybrid technology, providing all the benefits of an electric vehicle but none of the downsides in terms of limited performance or driving range. As world leaders in hybrid technology we have now sold more than four million hybrids globally since launch."

Alfa Romeo extends warranty to five years on Mito and Giulietta

ALFA Romeo is extending its current three-year warranty by a further two years across the MiTo and Giulietta product ranges to provide retail customers with added peace of mind on their new car purchases.

The news comes as the Italian sporting car brand launches the Alfa MiTo TwinAir – featuring the award winning 875cc twin-cylinder turbo engine with variable intake valve technology and sub-100g/km CO2 emissions.

Burt wins inaugural tournament view from sport

SIX enthusiastic members of Loders Young Players put their studies into practice recently when they took part in the inaugural Lyps Real Tennis singles tournament held at the Hyde Real Tennis court in Walditch.

The group, aged between 10 and 14 -years-old, have been learning the historic game at once a month sessions over the past two years.

Playing a round robin format eventually culminated in a final pairing of Marcus Burt and Charlie Parkman, the latter player just edging past Connor Tett, which saw Burt beat Parkman in a closely contested final to become the first winner of what is hoped to be an annual event.

The Hyde head Pro Ben Ronaldson commented on how well all the players improved as the tournament advanced.

LYP would like to pay special thanks to Ben Ronaldson for marking all the matches and overseeing proceedings during an enjoyable afternoon of sportsmanship and fun, and to Des Gale for arrang-

Lyme Regis green narrowly avoids rock fall

BOWLS ROUND-UP

DESPITE difficulties attracting the usual number of entrants to the 53rd annual Wevmouth & Portland Bowls Tournament because of perceived concerns about traffic access and congestion as well as parking and increased accommodation costs during Olympic year, numerous local clubs including those from London, Weston-super-Mare, Bristol and Poole have registered teams.

The tournament, a regular event on the bowling calendar, in fact falls between the end of the Olympics and the commencement of the Paralympics, meaning traffic access to the town and car parks will be open as usual.

In addition the organisers are able to offer entrants car parking vouchers valid at the Swannery and Lodmoor car parks which provide access to the Melcombe Regis and Greenhill clubs at a cost of £15 for the week.

The event will be played at the Weymouth and Melcombe Regis, Greenhill and Wellworthy clubs between August 20th and 24th, and will be officially opened by the Deputy Mayor, Ray Banham. The final will be played at Greenhill Bowling Club.

This year the Tournament will take a different format to normal with the introduction of a High 5 Open Classic competition that will be open to teams of five players; men, ladies or mixed

Teams will be drawn into groups with each team in a group playing an inter-group round-robin. Each team will be free to arrange themselves to play two sessions

In their first session each team will play games of singles and rinks, and in their second session play pairs and triples. Each day points will be allocated to each team's individual game and overall match result within

The winning teams from each group and the best overall runners-up from the groups will go through to a knock-out semi-final and final contest.

The remaining teams will be entered into a knock-out Plate Competition requiring teams to arrange themselves to play only pairs and triple contests. For the entry fee of only £6 per player, teams will be guaranteed four days of bowling.

Also by popular demand the usual knockout Men's Triples competition will be held each evening, Monday to Thursday with the final scheduled to be played on the Friday Final's Day. Throughout the week, food and refreshments will be available for purchase at each of the greens by competitors and spectators.

Sponsorship for this year's tournament is currently being provided by Weymouth & Portland Council; Co-operative Funeral Care; Bluebird Care, Weymouth & West Dorset, and Jenny Andrews, ensuring that all High 5 Open Classic and Plate competition finalists and the Men's Triples finalists will be well rewarded, with prize monies totalling £1,500 at stake on finals day.

There are still some vacancies in both the High 5 Open Classic and the Men's Triples competitions, so anyone contemplating entering a team is urged to submit their entry Tournament Secretary Doug Wise said: The Olympics coming to the town this year, has proved a deterrent for many of the regular competitors that normally attend from all over the UK.

"This is the reason why the usual straight knock-out Men's Single and Pairs, Ladies Pairs and Mixed Pairs contests have been replaced this year by what we have called the 'High Five' Open Classic competition, which has the added incentive that entrants are assured of four days of bowling.

"Prize monies from our sponsors have been forthcoming and we are currently awaiting confirmation from the Kings Hotel Group that they will once again be sponsoring the evening Men's Triples competition as usual."

Entry forms and tournament details have been distributed to the majority of bowling clubs throughout the county, but if additional forms are required they can be reguested from Dave Wise on 01305 783470.

BRIDPORT OUTDOOR

CONGRATULATIONS go to Bridport Bowling Club members Bill Payne, Brian Rumble and Chris Thorne who won the Westlands Famous Grouse Triples tournament that attracted an entry of 24 teams.

LYME REGIS with Paul Moffitt

WHAT a week! The men managed eight points against Blandford in the Championship and then went on to overcome Wimborne in the County Cup by two shots.

This result puts Lyme into the semi-finals of this competition.

Unfortunately the 'A' team were again well beaten by Sherborne, losing all 10 points. Their fortunes will have to change quickly or relegation looms.

The ladies were victims of the weather having to postpone their league game and share their points with Sherborne in the Edna Paisley.

Saturday morning's weather brought chaos in and around our green, with mud and rocks cascading off the cliffs in a wall of water which, miraculously, were diverted away from the green by the dividing wall between the green and the car park.

Unfortunately the car park was rendered unusable by tons of blue lias mud and rocks. As a result of this the County Pairs quarter and semi finals which were due to be played at Lyme on Sunday had to be abandoned. This would have been a lucrative fixture for the club which is losing revenue on a regular basis because of so many cancelled matches.

INSIDE: Comprehensive local sport round-up

Uplyme's Harvey in England squad

combe has been selected for the English Lions under 19 Dodgeball

Dodgeball is a six-a-side team sport played across the country by those of all ages.

It is often confused with the current Olympic sport of handball but there are many differences, none more than the clear change from aiming the ball at an opponent rather than a goal.

Brimicombe, who turns out as a wing-back for Lyme Regis football club when home from university, told VIEW Sports: "The Lions are effectively a preparatory squad for the Men's equivalent which we (The Lions) are expected to reach in the next year or so.

by Howard Larcombe howard@pemedia.co.uk

"My team, the Winchester Bullets, recently finished 2nd in the national Division Two and in doing so gained promotion into Division

"In my first year I have won five medals, two 1st place tournament wins, one 3rd place tournament, one for 2nd nationally and one for winning the South Division Conference Division Two.

'I have also won a 'Last Man Standing'award for individual performance back in February."

Brimicombe will however miss three months of squad training from September to December while in America studying in Southern Oregon.

Dodgeball is an entertaining and enjoyable sport for all to play, coach and watch.

With three balls in play the sport is attractive to watch as players execute skills of throwing, dodging, blocking and catching, individually and as a team, in order to stay in the game or to get team-mates back in.

The sport's governing bodies are hopeful that it will continue to grow and will become an Olympic sport in years to come.

 Dodgeball sprang to prominence in 2004 with the release of the film 'Dodgeball: A True Underdog Story' starring Vince Vaughn

Our products are guaranteed & maintenance free, so there is no need to worry about any extra costs in the future.

Our products

With over 2,000 successful installations, our delighted customers have transformed their properties by plugging into possibly the best & most technically advanced retro-fit heating system any where in the world. We believe the German radiator system has enormous benefits over the British night storage system, its technical superiority makes it easy to use & the automatic controls means it keeps you warm when its cold, saving you from paying for heating you don't need. Slimline & stylish, our radiators are available in extensive size ranges & over 200 different colours.

Why replace your old heating?

Old fashioned Night Storage, apart from using a large amount of energy, has little control. The rooms you want heated always seem to be cold at the very time of day when you need them to be warm, making your rely on expensive back up heating. Like gas, oil or lpg, our products are a primary heating system, but unlike these systems, using German 24hr storage radiators give you complete control over the temperature in each individual room. They are simple to install & we believe, more economical than oil, lpg or old fashioned night storage.
